Since a few years, this website was running on a VPS, together with some other side projects and my mailboxes. I like self-hosting but don't have always the time for it and to take care about things right away.

That's why I decided to move some components that I just want to work, like this website or my email, to hosted services from Hetzner (web) and Mailbox.org (mail).

For obvious reasons, a regular shared webhosting doesn't support Tor, so I will temporary shutdown the onion service which will impact the reachability of this blog via `http://2xwpdwnzmag3ewobwsdewpor4gmca4d5gltviol3u6upihb6m6m6xaad.onion/` until I setup the onion part on new virtual machine.
